While adding these positions, the company has also expanded their regional sales team in the field. New to the team serving as a Regional Sales Manager (RSM) is Anthony Abatzis in New England.

“The ETS family and team has a strong passion and commitment for our products, industry, and customers. These new team members are a great fit to our culture to provide the very best product, education, and world class customer experience. Our newly appointed directors will continue to keep a regular presence and interaction with our customers while having more opportunities to influence growth and change to our organization. They represent an already amazing team and look forward to what is to come,” stated Brandon Bell, Vice President of Sales.
